

Writing Prompts

Complete as many as you choose.

1. Using words/phrases someone might use to search Google or a different search engine of your choice, create a story simply from those 'searches'. Optional-add time stamps to each search.
2. Research different types of terrain and pick one you are unfamiliar with. Using pictures and your research, write a description of place set in that terrain. Bonus: adjust the setting according to the time of year/season it is there.
3. Write a poem that is spooky and/or horror themed. Tips: don't forget to build tension, or the fact that your reader's imagination is your friend, and you don't have to describe things in too much detail.
4. Pick a monster and write about it being someone's pet. POV & genre is up to you. Are monsters usual in this world? What would be the difficulties and perks of having that monster as a pet. Have fun!
5. Write a story about a ghost that's stuck haunting an unusual object. What object? Why is it haunting it? How far can it go from that object? How much can it affect the 'living' world, if at all?
