

Art Prompts

1. Pick a window with a view you like, and create an artwork from it (any medium). If you wish, include some of the surroundings of the window, but the center point should be the window and what you can see through it.
2. Create a piece of art using only three colors. For instance, pick three markers, three coloring pencils, or three paints. Shades, such as picking blue and using different shades, do not count. Black & white are not included (i.e. if you want to outline with black, or highlight with white, black and/or white must be one of the colors you pick.)
3. Draw a newspaper style comic of something funny that either has happened in your past, or is inspired by that event. The goal is humor—don't worry about how realistic or 'pretty' your art is! Just try to make something that will make someone laugh!
4. Open a dictionary to a random page, and without looking point to a word on the page. Don't have a dictionary? Use a word of the day website. Make a piece of art that is either inspired by that word, or otherwise includes it.
5. Pick a character and switch their morality. Good character becomes evil, or vice versa. Draw what you think they would look like!
